Reading Aid

This representation of the questionnaire contains the same informations as the portal paneldata.org.

The diagram illustrates the structure of a questionnaire entry. It shows two questions, Q72 and Q73, with their respective text, instructions, and answer options. Labels on the left point to specific parts of the entry:

- question number: Points to the question number (Q72, Q73).
- question text: Points to the main text of the question.
- interviewer instruction: Points to the instruction text (e.g., "This refers to Germany...").
- answer options: Points to the list of possible answers (Yes, No, No answer).
- in blue: identifier for filter: Points to the blue text "Q72;lsta1".
- in blue: filter with condition: Points to the blue text "Q72;lsta1=2".
- grey bar: open or numeric answer: Points to the grey bar representing the answer.

On the right, a label points to the green text "born in Germany", stating: "in green: dataset name variable name variable label".

Here, in addition to the question number, question text, interviewer instructions, and answer options, you find printed in green the file name and the variable name with the variable label, which contains information from the question. If you see rows of green lines below the answer option, the questionnaire defines several variables or informations are stored in more than one data set.

The routing by filters is depicted in blue. Each variable is preceded by an identifier (which generally contains the question number, marked here with a yellow dotted line), which is given, if the variable is used in filters in a subsequent question. Such filters are usually shown (as gatekeepers) at the beginning of the question.

This reading aid does not cover a few exceptional cases: If the filter (as gatekeeper) only affects one of several variables for a question, the filter is printed in blue behind the variable. There you will also find a "go to" command in the form 2 @ Q73. Here, the questionnaire skips to question 73 if the variable results in value of 2.

Phrases that are not already translated in English are displayed in German and preceded by [de].

With the help of this probably extraordinary approach we want to examine, how people notice and evaluate each other and which influences such evaluations have on the responses made by the interviewee.

Of course, we will keep your answers a secret and not show them to the interviewee. Vice versa, you will not get to know how the interviewee evaluates you.

Q1301

Please just ask the interviewee for the saliva sample, if you have unused test tubes available.

Before we start with the interview, I want to ask you, if you already support scientific research on stress with a saliva sample. Maybe you remember the small information sheet about this topic, which you received together at the begin of the new survey run.

If you can imagine to give a saliva sample, I ask you to have a look at this information brochure. Of course, the delivery of the saliva sample is absolutely voluntary.

Please hand out the brochure in every case, even if the interviewee agrees immediately.

B51 DRM (Samples E & I )

Q2:STICHU=10/11,19

T6 We would like to know now, what you have done yesterday and how you felt at the same time. First we will ask you when you got up yesterday. Then we will ask you to reconstruct yesterday with the help of this booklet. Please think of your day as a sequence of episodes between 15 minutes and 2 hours. A sign for the end of an episode could be the change of the location, the end of an activity and the begin of another activity or the change of the participating persons. Regarding some episodes we will ask further questions.

Episodes should normally include a period of 15 minutes to two hours. But there can be activities which take longer (e.g. work). These should determined as well.

Explanation of the scientific principal for this module:

One goal of social research is to find out, what effects our quality of life in particular. To achieve this, scientists need evaluations of people about how satisfied they are with their lives. This question we pose at the end of this survey every year.

However, sometimes it is not sufficient to ask people in general about how satisfied they are. For this reason scientists started to ask people for their feelings throughout the day. They shall give information about how they feel about their life in particular moments and not just in general. This procedure allows to get a better impression of a person's life. Thereby it is possible to examine how certain activities influence our feelings and quality of life day after day.

Q332 When did you get up yesterday?

Please use the following format hh:mm. You can type in the time in this format or select the time.
