When this paper was first published online, there were some textual errors in the conclusion section which the authors have asked to be corrected.

The correct text reads:

Entrepreneurial networking and EoI are true drivers of opportunity exploitation among SMEs in Uganda. The direct relationship between entrepreneurial networking and opportunity exploitation was found to be significant without the mediating effects of EoI, this relationship remains significant when the mediation of EoI is allowed. Our model confirms that the presence of EoI acts as a beneficial and effective channel in the association between entrepreneurial networking and opportunity exploitation. It is important to understand the power of EoI as partial mediator between entrepreneurial networking and opportunity exploitation among SMEs in Uganda. Managers/owners of SMEs should invest in entrepreneurial networks to access tangible and intangible resources, create enabling environment for innovations to exploit opportunities is an essential aspect of sustaining SMEs.

This section of text has now been corrected and the article republished online.
