Editorial

Starting a new journal is a challenging task especially if it is devoted to a real exchange of ideas between East and West. The Journal for East European Management Studies (JEEMS) will contribute towards the development of management knowledge in Central and East European countries as well as to a more sophisticated understanding of new and unique trends, tendencies and problems within these countries.

Here we are! The first issue shows how we would like to develop.

The first article from Dirk Holtbrügge (Dortmund) is about German-Russian joint ventures and gives the result of studies since 1993. It shows, especially, the cultural problems associated with such cooperation. Vincent Edwards (Buckinghamshire) and Peter Lawrence (Loughborough) present a British view on an East German company in its transitional period. Snezhina Michailova (Sofia/ Copenhagen) explores the dynamics of the relationships between macro and micro changes in Bulgaria at societal and organizational level with references to the result of a case study in a large Bulgarian enterprises.

The „Forum“ starts with a discussion on research methods. Klaus Lindert (Braunschweig) favours a quantitative, longitudinal studies approach to research on transformation at organizational level, but Jolanta Kulpinska and Krzysztof Konecki (Łódź) support a case studies oriented concept.

In general, short contributions, for example comments on articles, position papers and letters to the editor are welcome here.

„News / Information“ includes short conference reports as well as information about new research and teaching institutions, as well as programmes in and on Central and Eastern Europe. And, finally, John Erpenbeck's column shows the way in which we should deal with the problems in Eastern Europe: with an opening to a unique process where we could all learn a lot ... if we really want to.

Starting a new journal is not an easy thing. A lot of work has had to be done and would have been impossible without the help of colleagues from different places and countries in the East and West. Thanks to them all!
